Re:	2024 Pro Bono Report for Lycoming County
Date:	January 8, 2025

I want to sincerely thank the members of the Lycoming Law Association for volunteering to accept cases, pro bono, from North Penn Legal Services. 35 attorneys accepted pro bono cases in Lycoming County from our office this year.

In 2024, we focused more attention and effort on finding additional funding to provide representation in Protection from Abuse cases in Lycoming County, because the volume of those cases continues to increase dramatically each year, and they have exceeded our available resources, which include pro bono attorneys, our staff attorneys and private attorneys with whom we contract on an hourly basis. This is the greatest area of need for pro bono service in Lycoming County, and with the help of pro bono volunteers, we were able to provide representation in a total of 302 protection order cases in Lycoming County in 2024.

Many of our pro bono volunteers are willing to accept mortgage foreclosure cases, and we expect those cases to increase in 2025. We saw fewer foreclosure cases, since the beginning of the pandemic, due to moratoriums and mortgage assistance programs, which are coming to an end.

This is a breakdown of the number and types of cases referred to pro bono attorneys by North Penn in 2024 in Lycoming County:

Protection from Abuse
Debt collection defense
Housing (eviction, conditions, utilities)
Guardianship & POA
Conflict referrals
Foreclosure defense
Unemployment Compensation
Name Change
Sexual Violence/Intimidation prot. order
Divorce (clinic)
Total

North Penn hosted two virtual CLEs that were free to pro bono attorneys: Defending a Consumer Debt on October 23, 2024, and Disaster Legal Help - FEMA Individual Assistance and Helping Applicants with Denials, on October 30, 2024. Attorneys who attended both trainings received 2.5 substantive CLE credits for free, if they were willing to accept a pro bono referral from North Penn. Attorneys can also earn up to three CLE credits for their work on pro bono cases.¹

I am attaching our most recent letter to the new admittees to the bar of Lycoming County, which outlines our pro bono opportunities.

Thank you to everyone who accepted pro bono cases from North Penn. Our clients often present special challenges, due to mental health problems, intellectual limitations, or simply, a lack of resources. I am grateful that, in spite of these challenges, you have continued to volunteer your time and effort to help them.

Dear Attorney _____,

We would like to take this opportunity to congratulate you on your association with _________and the bar of Lycoming County. As an active attorney in Lycoming County, you have become affiliated with a bar association that is a leader within the state of Pennsylvania in providing pro bono legal services to the indigent.

In 1985, the Lycoming Law Association, upon recommendation of then President Judge Thomas C. Raup, insisted that each of its members, and any attorneys admitted to the Lycoming County Courts, take a minimum of three pro bono referrals each year from the local legal aid office, which is now North Penn Legal Services. Judge Nancy Butts, the current President Judge, has continued the Court's commitment to pro bono representation in this county. The Court and the Law Association believe this to be an integral part of an attorney's professional responsibility.

North Penn Legal Services has a number of options available for performing pro bono service.

1. Protection from Abuse Panel

This panel is comprised of approximately 50 attorneys who have agreed to fulfill their pro bono obligation by accepting indigent clients who are seeking Protection from Abuse orders. This is the area of greatest need for pro bono service, and many attorneys find this to be a rewarding and satisfying way to meet their obligation. There are several law firms in which all the members participate. To avoid scheduling conflicts, you can provide North Penn with three or more times throughout the year that you will reserve for PFA hearings. (These hearings are consistently scheduled every Monday, Wednesday and Friday morning.) North Penn will provide training and support you, through an annual CLE, written materials, and individual training.

2. Mortgage Foreclosure Diversion Program

In July of 2012, the Lycoming County Court of Common Pleas instituted a Mortgage Foreclosure Diversion Program for owner-occupied properties in foreclosure. Homeowners who are sued can request that the foreclosure be stayed, while they attempt to negotiate with the lender and participate in a settlement conference with the Court. Pro bono attorneys volunteer to represent homeowners in the settlement conferences and in negotiations with the lender. North Penn provides training and support to the pro bono attorney, through written materials and individual training.

3. Cases in your area of practice

Some attorneys prefer to represent clients with problems in the areas in which their private practice is focused. North Penn serves indigent clients in a wide variety of civil legal cases, and many are turned away due to the high volume of requests for services. We can serve a much larger segment of the community with your help one in these areas:

- 1. Expungement, limited access, or pardoning of criminal records if your practice is primarily criminal defense, this is the area for you. An old criminal record is often a barrier to employment and housing for indigent people.
- 2. Power of Attorney and guardianship many indigent clients need help formalizing these relationships, in order to improve or stabilize their finances and housing.
- 3. Government benefits ineligibility, over/underpayment, or denial of coverage in disability, unemployment and medical assistance cases can have severe consequences for those living in poverty.
- 4. Bankruptcy when it is necessary to protect the income, assets, housing or utility service of an indigent person.

4. Conflict Referrals

If you agree to be placed on our conflict attorney referral list, you may be contacted directly by clients who cannot be served by North Penn due to a conflict of interest. When someone is financially eligible for North Penn's services, but a conflict exists, we cannot gather the information necessary to make a direct referral. Those applicants are given the enclosed form, which is always copied on blue paper. They are given this form with a list of attorneys who have agreed to accept conflict referrals, so they can find their own representation. If an attorney accepts a conflict referral and sends the Acceptance of Pro Bono Referral form to us, the attorney is given credit for a pro bono referral. If there is ever a question about the legitimacy of a referral, please do not hesitate to call North Penn's Pro Bono Coordinator, Becky Rennicks, at 570-323-8741, ext. 8703.

Earning CLE credits by providing pro bono service

Beginning in 2019, attorneys may receive one (1) CLE credit hour for every five (5) hours of pro bono service completed through North Penn Legal Services. A maximum of three (3) credit hours may be earned per compliance period. For more information, see 204 Pa. Code section 5.

Another way to help - Donating your arbitration fees to the LLAF

Attorneys who serve on arbitration panels in Lycoming County can also donate some or all of their fees to the Lycoming Law Association Foundation, and a percentage of those donations is awarded to the Williamsport Office of North Penn Legal Services, to support its work in Lycoming County. A form for donating these fees is also enclosed.

We realize that many attorneys represent clients without compensation and also do pro bono work for organizations. However, the civil legal needs of many indigent people are unmet. Due to a shortfall in this area, an appeal for Pro Bono Service was made by Chief Justice Todd earlier this year, which is enclosed, and the Pennsylvania Bar Association maintains a website dedicated to pro bono service - PAProbono.net - an "online legal community that provides information and resources for pro bono attorneys, legal aid attorneys, public defenders, and other legal advocates interested in increasing access to justice. This site contains resources to assist in your representation of low income or disadvantaged clients."

Thank you so much for your attention and interest in pro bono work, and welcome to the Lycoming County bar! Please let us know how you wish to participate. We look forward to working with you.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Heverly, Esq., Managing Attorney Williamsport Office North Penn Legal Services
